

TWO ARRESTS IN JEWEL ROBBERY.

John Waters and Michael Moran Suspected of Complicity in Theft at Waldorf.

Two noted crooks, who have left a trail of hotel robberies across the country, were arrested to-day by Central Office Detectives on suspicion of having been concerned in the robbery of Mrs. Kingdon's jewels at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The men are John Waters, alias Gibbons, and Michael Moran. Their pictures adorn the Rogues' Galleries in several cities of the United States. There is no direct clue connecting the men with the big robbery. It is believed, but the presence of the men in the city, from which they had recently been warned, is believed to have been sufficient to compel the police to take action in their case.

The men were walking leisurely along Central Park West, in its most exclusive part, to-day, when they were taken into custody by Central Office Detectives Valley, Stripp, Kane and Kear, who had been shadowing the men for several hours. They made no resistance when arrested and went quietly with the detectives to Police Headquarters. They will be arraigned in Jefferson Market Police Court at noon and remanded back to Police Headquarters.

Many of the employees of the Waldorf-Astoria, and the house detective, will go to Police Headquarters and look at the prisoners.

O'BRIEN ON TRIAL FOR SHOOTING WIFE.

Brooklyn Policeman Who Killed His Wife by Accident Before Judge Crane on Charge of Manslaughter.

Policeman John J. O'Brien, of the Classen avenue station, Brooklyn, who accidentally shot his wife on April 2, was called to trial before County Judge Crane, in Brooklyn to-day, on a charge of manslaughter in the second degree. The risk-attorney Crane appeared as prosecutor, and ex-District-Attorney James W. Ridgway for O'Brien's defense.

O'Brien went home intoxicated at noon April 2. He and his young wife lived at No. 1069 East Thirty-fourth street, Vandewater Park. O'Brien put his revolver on the mantelpiece, and when he sought to return it to his pocket it was discharged accidentally, killing his wife instantly.

O'Brien was grief-stricken. He declared it was "the devil's own trick," and that his wife was more to him than life. He was indicted for manslaughter in the second degree, which is a killing by negligence. O'Brien's mother-in-law will testify in his behalf.

DIED AFTER DOCTOR SAID "JUST DRUNK"

George Bower Was Rejected by an Ambulance Surgeon Who Did Not Realize the Man's Condition.

George Bower died this morning in St. Catharine's Hospital, Williamsburg, a prisoner-patient, after having been rejected as a patient by an ambulance surgeon from another hospital. There will probably be an investigation.

Bower was thirty-five years old. In the course of a Sunday jubilation he fell or jumped into Newtown Creek at Johnson and Morgan avenues. He was rescued with some difficulty and a policeman from the Stagg street station called an ambulance, believing Bower to be seriously injured.

When the ambulance surgeon came, however, he pronounced the usual verdict, "just drunk," and drove away, leaving Bower behind. The policeman took him to the station-house, where the sergeant, unable to arouse Bower from his stupor, called another ambulance and sent him to St. Catharine's, where he died, as stated.

BRIDGE SUICIDE LAY ON CAR TRACKS.

Clambered from Promenade to Rails and Calmly Waited for Train to Roll Over Him—Almost Beheaded.

A throng of Brooklynites on a train just leaving the station of the Brooklyn bridge, at the Manhattan end and hundreds packed in cars on another coming in from Brooklyn this forenoon were horrified witnesses of a most revolting suicide.

The train leaving the Manhattan end was drawn by an electric motor. It had reached a point just beyond the signal station, twenty-five feet from the entrance to the sheds, when suddenly a man separated himself from the ceaseless procession on the promenade and clambered with nervous energy on the picketed iron fence threw himself on the track before the train.

There was a cry of horror from a hundred throats as the desperate man hurriedly disposed himself so that his neck lay across the outer rail.

Faced the Train.
He faced his executioner and waited for the wheels to gullotine him, with his eyes dark and sunken upon it.

The motorman on the front car saw the man and reversed the current. But it was too late. The wheels ran upon the form lying prone, and then there was a sickening sound as they crushed and ground their victim.

The excitement on the promenade was intense. Men ran about beside themselves. No one dared climb upon the track, though several essayed to do so.

After a moment the body of the man on the track dropped down between the ties to the gravel and hung so. Then it was seen that he was almost decapitated, the head lopping over on one side and hanging on the shoulder.

Suicide a Workman.

Policeman Butler and Detective B. A. Smith, of the bridge force, saw the crowd and hurried to the scene. A stretcher was brought from the tool-house and the body was hoisted out of the space between the ties with a bell-rope, which was noosed about the waist.

The suicide was evidently a poor man, probably a Russian or Polish Hebrew. He was miserably dressed. He was very dark, with a long, lean, sharp, hungry face. There was a very small, crinkled black mustache and a knotty black beard under, not on, the chin. He was probably thirty-five years old.

It was also seen that when the car wheel reached the man on the track it first pushed his head far back before the wheels cut their way through the obstruction at the level of the mouth, and ripped it away from the body until the train came to a standstill.

A few inches more and a complete decapitation would have been made. Dr. L. L. Buckley, of No. 187 Bergen street, Brooklyn, was a passenger on the incoming train. His attention was attracted by the horrified cry of the people on the promenade. He hurried to aid if possible, but found only a quivering, bleeding body.

The corpse was carried to one of the tool-houses inside the bridge shed by direction of Roundmaster John J. Farrell and a Coroner was notified.

No one in all the crowd knew anything about the man who took his life so horribly.

WALL SHATTERED BY A HIGH WIND.

Section of Hardman Piano Factory, Recently Weakened by Fire, Thrown Down—Panic Among Residents.

During the high wind yesterday a twenty-five-foot section of the fire-weakened walls of the Hardman piano factory, Nos. 633 to 645 West Forty-seventh street, was blown into the street. Houses on the opposite side of the thoroughfare were bombarded with flying bricks and many windows broken.

Persons living in the tenement, No. 633, were thrown into a panic by the crash of the falling wall, and several families fled pell-mell into the street.

Brady's saloon is opposite the point where the wall fell. Several men were drinking at the bar at that moment. Bricks were hurled through the window and upon the bar, smashing beer glasses held in the hands of the customers. No one in the saloon or elsewhere was hurt. The Building Department was notified, but an inspector to-day declared the walls to be safe.

POPE NAMES TWO AMERICAN BISHOPS

Very Rev. W. J. Kenny Appointed to See of St. Augustine and Very Rev. P. J. Garrigan for Sioux City.

ROME, June 8.—The Pope was present at the consistory held this morning. He was borne to the Sistine Chapel in the Sedia Gestatoria, surrounded by Cardinals, and formally bestowed red hats on Mgrs. Martelli, ex-Papal Delegate in the United States; Prince Archbishop Skrzyski, of Prague, and Prince Bishop Von Preysing, of Cracow.

The Pontiff also appointed several Bishops, including the Very Rev. William J. Kenny, Vicar-General, of Jacksonville, Fla., as Bishop of St. Augustine, Fla., in succession to the late Bishop Augustin Verot, and Very Rev. Philip J. Garrigan, Vice-Rector of the Catholic University at Washington, as Bishop of Sioux City, Ia.

Subsequently, at the secret consistory, the Pontiff delivered a short allocution.

Judge Taft, Governor of the Philippine Islands, and the Americans with him were invited to witness the ceremony. The party occupied seats in the diplomatic gallery, in the Sala Regia (entrance hall to the Sistine Chapel). As the Pontiff passed he recognized them and smilingly bowed to the Americans.

After thanking God for preserving him to attain the Pontifical Jubilee, the Pope expressed his gratification at the pilgrimage to Rome, and deplored the acts of the enemies of the Catholic Faith in seeking to de-Christianize Italy, and particularly Rome, by spreading and protecting heresy and Protestantism, by writings, speeches and theatrical representations.

NOT TODD'S BODY, THE JURY SAYS.

Evidence of Long Island City Editor's Sons Accepted Against Widow Who Claimed Corpse.

A Coroner's jury this afternoon decided that the body of the man found in Flushing Creek last Wednesday was not that of Thomas H. Todd, the publisher of the Long Island City Star, who disappeared a year and a half ago. But disappeared to a person speaking for this, according to a year and a half ago. But the jury will not change Mrs. Todd's opinion. She believes the corpse that of her missing husband.

The jury was out only a few minutes when it reported the verdict that the body was that of a man not identified. Mrs. Todd has already had the funeral services held over the body and has purchased two graves in Flushing Cemetery. When the inquest was over some one representing Mrs. Todd communicated with the Coroner and asked what the verdict was. Upon being told this person said that Mrs. Todd would insist that the body was that of her husband.

Consequently the estate of Todd cannot yet be settled. After the inquest the Coroner was notified that Mrs. Todd was too sick from grief over her supposed husband's death to attend the inquest. She is at the home of a friend in Brooklyn.

Mr. Todd's sons, Thomas H. Jr., and Edward Todd, are publishing the Star, for they have never believed that the body was that of their father. Consequently they are prepared to prevent any premature attempt to settle the estate.

Inquest Witnesses Disagree.

At the inquest to-day Eliza L. Young, a sister of Thomas H. Todd, and Joseph W. McKiney, a nephew, said that they believed the body was that of Mr. Todd. They had no way of identifying it except by general appearance. Those who testified that the body could not be that of Mr. Todd were his two sons and Dr. W. J. Burnett, Dr. H. H. Hunt, Dr. J. W. Wright, George H. Rowe and Dr. Benjamin Strong. Dr. Hunt, dentist, said he had made a plate of false teeth for Mr. Todd a month before he disappeared, and that the teeth of the dead man were all sound, while Mr. Todd had no lower teeth. Thomas H. Todd, Jr., said that his father was a Mason and would not have carried a Catholic emblem. Such an insignia was found on the body. In a pocket of the clothing on the dead man was found a tobacco pouch containing about $9. Edward Todd testified that his father never carried his money that way, that he always carried it in a leather wallet.

TROLEY KILLS MAN.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., June 8.—An unknown man, sixty-five years old, was killed in the outskirts of Bordentown late last night by being struck by a trolley car of the Camden and Trenton Railway. His body was brought into Bordentown where it now lies in a morgue unidentified.

GIRL DETECTIVE QUILTS IN TEARS.

Vivian Morgan, Arrested in Complicated Case, Rushes from Court to Mother.

Vivian Morgan's experience as a private detective impelled her to forswear the profession in Jefferson Market Court this morning, after she had spent a night in a cell. Miss Morgan is a remarkably pretty young woman, who passed as a manicure to secure evidence which might be used in a divorce action. She was employed by John Loper, a private detective, of Brooklyn, who makes a specialty of securing evidence in such cases. He is still in custody, being unable to provide the $1,500 bonds required through the complaint of Mrs. Ora Jacobs, wife of Maurice Regal Jacobs, a Wall street broker, who lives in the San Rafael apartments, No. 45 West Forty-fifth street.

Miss Morgan called on Mrs. Jacobs Saturday night and intimated to her, so Mrs. Jacobs said, that it would be well for her to make the friendship of Loper. Mrs. Jacobs sent for Detective Dehli, but before he arrived Miss Morgan left. And before he arrived Loper came. He was arrested.

Charge of Blackmail.

In the Jefferson Market Court Mrs. Jacobs said that Loper had been blackmailing her for several years, that he had been employed by her former husband, John C. Klein, to procure the evidence which secured for him a divorce from her, and that since then he had been taking money from her on this evidence, which she says was false. Loper said that he had never taken money from her, but that he had been employed by Mr. Jacobs in the capacity in which her first husband had employed him. He said that he had employed Miss Morgan to secure evidence and that she, as a manicure, had called on Mrs. Jacobs, that the two, with another woman, had met three men and gone to the Indian restaurant, opposite the Waldorf, where they drank much wine and later went to a champagne party and had a champagne party.

Woman is Hysterical.
"What's the use of waiting?" said Mrs. Jacobs, and she pointed Miss Morgan out in the courtroom. Detective Dehli arrested the young woman, who immediately became hysterical and required the attendance of a physician. Both cases were continued until to-day.

Miss Morgan was released this morning, having been ill in her cell all night and Mrs. Jacobs saying she did not wish to prosecute her. As she rushed from the courtroom she cried: "I don't want to be a detective any more." Her mother was waiting for her outside and she was hurried away in a carriage.

Loper was remanded for further examination. He said that he had gone to Mrs. Jacobs' house Saturday night, having understood that she wanted to employ him to secure evidence against her husband, by whom he said he was already employed.

Mrs. Jacobs said that she had given Miss Morgan money several times, believing that the young woman was watching her husband. The case will be called again to-morrow.
